Common Myths about Domestic Violence in the Latino Community

- Privacy - If the couple is having problems no one should interfere...
- Machismo - Men have the right to abuse their wife and children.
- If you report the abuse you will get deported and/or lose your children.
- Religion - Pray and God will change him or this is the man God chose for you.
- What did she do to deserve being hit?
- He is the man you chose to be with, now you have to accept the way he is....

Casey Gwinn, Esq. serves as the President of Alliance for HOPE International. Programs of the Alliance include: Family Justice Center Alliance, Training Institute on Strangulation Prevention, Camp HOPE America, Justice Legal Network and VOICES Survivors Advocacy Network.

Casey has been recognized by The American Lawyer magazine as one of the top 45 public lawyers in America and he is an honors graduate of Stanford University and UCLA School of Law.

Casey served for eight years as the elected City Attorney of San Diego from 1996 to 2004. Prior to entering elected office, Casey founded City Attorney's Child Abuse and Domestic Violence Unit, leading the Unit from 1986 to 1996 – prosecuting both misdemeanor and felony cases. The National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges honored his specialized prosecution unit as the model prosecution unit in the nation in 1993.

In 2002, Casey saw his vision of a comprehensive, “one stop shop” for services to victims of family violence become a reality in San Diego as he led the effort to open the nationally acclaimed San Diego Family Justice Center. In October 2003, President George W. Bush announced a national initiative to begin creating Family Justice Centers across the country and asked Casey to provide leadership to the effort. Casey currently oversees a national technical assistance team that supports all existing and developing Family Justice Centers in the United States and around the world and speaks in communities across the United States.

Casey has served on the U.S. Attorney General's National Advisory Committee on Violence Against Women and the American Bar Association Commission on Domestic Violence. He chaired the California Attorney General's Task Force on Domestic Violence. He also served on the congressionally created Department of Defense task force, studying the handling of family violence throughout the Department of Defense.

He has authored or co-authored a host of articles and books on domestic violence and the Family Justice Center movement. The first book entitled “Hope for Hurting Families” calls for the creation of Family Justice Centers across America to help hurting and violent families. His second book, co-authored with Gael Strack, was released in April 2007, “Hope for Hurting Families II: How to Start a Family Justice Center in Your Community. Casey's fourth book, “Dream Big: A Simple, Complicated Idea to Stop Family Violence” was published in 2010. All books are available at www.familyjusticecenter.org.

Casey's most recent book, “Cheering For the Children: Creating Pathways to HOPE for Children Exposed to Trauma” is a clarion call to all caring people to become cheerleaders for children exposed to trauma and abuse. In the book explains why childhood trauma should be the preeminent public health issue in America today and how we can all help change the lives of children for the better. This book was the result of one of Casey's great personal passions, Camp HOPE America, the unique camping initiative he founded at the San Diego Family Justice Center and is now expanding across the nation. Camp HOPE is the first specialized camp in America focused exclusively on children exposed to domestic violence and child abuse.

Casey and his wife, Beth, have three grown children: Kelly; Karianne; and Chris. Casey is a proud grandfather of two grand children.
